PART 5

Q)10. Hi this is Leonard the coordinator for next week's American Sociology Conference.

As you are the assistant coordinator I was hoping to get your suggestions for a problem that we have.

The issue is that the location for the cocktail party after the conference has changed because the original restaurant cancelled on us. We already sent out information packets to all attendees so now the information on them is incorrect. We have to let them know of the change in venue. We are expecting over 500 people at the conference this year and we need to find a way to let people know about the new location. What steps should we take to handle this issue? Please call me back with your suggestions. Again this is Leonard.

Hi Leonard, this is Sarah calling you back. I see that you have a problem at the conference with the location change. So you want to know how to let people know about the new location for the cocktail party, is that right?

Well I am happy to help so don't worry about anything. Here are my suggestions for you.

First, I think it is a good idea to put up a notice on our website to let people know about this issue.

This way, people can look at it and know about the change before the conference.

Second, we can send out an email and a group text to everyone. I think this is the best way to let people know about the change. Well, these are my suggestions for you.

Please call me back so we can talk about this further. Again, this is Sarah.

Here are some reasons to support my opinion.

First, when rating job performances, we need a lot of information from others. If we get feedback from others, we can compare ideas easily. This is useful when rating employee job performances.

Second, it is important to get feedback from others because they have more experience and knowledge. They are reliable sources so we can trust the information. Then we can make a good decision when rating employee job performances.

For these reasons, I think it is important to get feedback from others when rating employee job performances
